

communication. Target behaviours for each child were determined based on assessments, consultation with caregivers and therapists, and informal probes. After a baseline was established for each child's target behaviour, participants watched a video of adults modelling the target behaviour. Testing sessions were conducted immediately following video modelling sessions. Inter-modified post-hoc to include teacher prompting and

