Anatomy of the Human Body
Winter 2024

Welcome to Anatomy of the Human Body ! Our teaching team is delighted to have you join us this term. In this course, we will build upon content from Systemic Approach to Functional Human Gross Anatomy (KIN 1060/2222 and HS 2300) by learning the anatomy of visceral systems within the body, with specific attention to the nervous (brain, spinal cord, and neurons), endocrine (glands and hormones), digestive (gastrointestinal tract and accessory organs), urinary (kidneys and bladder), and reproductive (gonads and genitalia) systems. Anatomy is a fundamental discipline that will support your understanding of core concepts related to health and disease in

Evaluation will occur across three major areas, subject to change up until the start of the course:

x Unit Quizzes (24%)

- o Each quiz includes 15 multiple choice questions. They open at 12:00pm (noon) and are due at 11:55pm (for a total of 84h) at the end of each unit via OWL on the dates listed above.
- o There will be five quizzes in total; however, only the top four scores will be counted, each worth 6%. This allows you to miss one quiz without penalty. Note, this includes any quiz missed with academic accommodation.
- o A quiz cannot be submitted after it has been returned to the class, so THERE ARE NO MAKE-UP QUIZZES OR EXTENSIONS
- o If more than one quiz is missed without approved academic considerations, a grade of zero will be assigned. If

Contacting Us:

We look forward to meeting you this term and supporting your learning throughout. Here are some tips for connecting with us and getting your questions answered.

Etiquette

Your course coordinator/instructor prefers to be addressed as Dr. McWatt (he/him/his); however, it is acceptable to use the first names of your teaching assistants. If you have a preferred name or pronoun that we get wrong, or if we mispronounce your name, please correct us – we want this to be a welcoming and comfortable space for all.

Email

Emails are permanent professional communications, so be sure to treat them as such! Key components of a professional email include addressing your recipient properly (use their appropriate title and spell their name correctly!), providing a clear and polite request, and signing off with your name and student number. Whenever possible, please use your @uwo.ca email address to avoid spam blocking filters and be sure to note the course code (e.g., KIN 3222, HS 3300, etc.) in the subject line of the email. If you do not receive a response within 24 hours, please follow up. We do our best to stay on top of communications, but with hundreds of students enrolled in the course,

Academic Integrity:

Online Assessment

All of the quizzes in this course will occur asynchronously online. This means that different people may have access to an assessment at different times. With this in mind, please remember:

- 1)

Students seeking academic consideration s:

- s Are advised to consider carefully the implications of postponing tests or midterm exams or delaying handing in work.
- s Are encouraged to make appropriate decisions, based on their specific circumstances, recognizing that minor ailments (e.g., upset stomach) or upsets (e.g., argument with a friend) are not normally appropriate.
- s Must communicate with their instructors no later than 24 hours after the end of the

Academic Accommodation

Please contact the course instructor if you require lecture or printed material in an alternate format or if any other arrangements can make this course more accessible to you. Students with ongoing accommodation needs within this course are also encouraged to contact Accessible Education, which provides recommendations for accommodation based on medical documentation or psychological and cognitive testing.
