COURSE DESCRIPTION

This seminar examines themes in art since 1980 through the lens of globalization. Globalization has been described as one of the most important changes in human history, and although difficult to define, it is typically associated with an increase in the movement and connectedness of people, goods, information, and knowledge, along with new systems and networks to regulate or expedite their flow. In this course, we focus on the work of artists who have explored issues connected to globalization and after. This includes themes such as: migration and cultural displacement, human rights, inter-cultural exchange, surveillance capitalism, and the Anthropocene. We also consider how artists are responding to the current wave of authoritarian populism and state protectionism. Students will develop their own research projects in relation to the course theme.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

Upon successful completion of the course, students will be able to:

Analyze and evaluate works and exhibitions of contemporary art using appropriate terminology.

Articulate an argument orally and in writing, support the argument using appropriate evidence, and address counter-arguments.

Apply knowledge of issues and debates in contemporary art to develop their own views, and articulate their ideas clearly in oral and written form.

Solve problems by participating constructively in group discussions and activities. This includes sharing ideas and listening respectfully to the views of others.

PREREQUISITE

The prerequisite for the course is VAH 2278E Art since 1945 or VAH 2281F/G. If you have not taken this course, you require permission of the Professor or the Department. Lack of prerequisites may not be used as the basis for an appeal.
